

Changing the narrative

Children and young people in the Northern Territory

Who are we?

An independent office that is responsible for ensuring the wellbeing of vulnerable children.

The Office of the Children's Commissioner's mission is to ensure that children and young people in the Northern Territory reach their full potential, by seeing their rights and best interests both safeguarded and promoted.

Participation is key

Children's voices matter; every child has the right to share their viewpoint on the issues that matter to them, whether they be big, small or somewhere in between.

In the Northern Territory children aged 0-14 years make up 22 percent of the population, however they are often left without a voice.

Let's hear these stories

We want to get to know the Territory's children and young people, and we want to hear their stories.

The Office of the Children's Commissioner is endeavouring to re-shape the community's perception of children and young people by highlighting the many positive transformations taking place across the Northern Territory.
